Jill M. Miller maintains a national practice advising clients in the electronic payments processing industry on contractual and regulatory matters with a particular focus on mergers and acquisitions. She is the chair of Bodman's Data Privacy and Security Practice Group.

Her clients include independent sales organizations, merchant-acquiring businesses, payment processors, major credit card brands, software and hardware providers, payment gateways, and financial institutions. She counsels these clients on compliance with card brand rules and regulations and a broad range of international, federal and state regulations, consumer disclosure laws, licensed lender laws, unclaimed property laws, credit card surcharge laws, and many other laws affecting the payments industry.

She also advises clients on compliance with state and federal personal data protection laws and prepares policies and procedures related to customer privacy and data breach protection, detection, and notification. She works with clients to respond to data breach incidents and works with forensic consultants and other advisors to mitigate risk to her clients when a breach occurs.

She is active with a number of industry associations, is a board member of the Southeast Acquirers Association (SEAA), and serves as outside general counsel to the Retail Solutions Providers Association (RSPA), a national organization composed of resellers, distributors, hardware manufacturers, software developers, consultants and service providers who bring retail technology solutions to the marketplace.
