Rebecca Seguin-Skrabucha is a member of Bodman's Workplace Law Practice Group. She concentrates her practice in advising employers on compliance with state and federal employment and labor laws.

She also has experience defending employers on a variety of employment claims before state and federal courts and before administrative agencies including the EEOC and the Michigan Department of Civil Rights. She has represented employers in disputes involving claims of discrimination, harassment, wrongful termination, and alleged violations of the FLMA, ADA, ADEA, and FLSA.

Before joining Bodman, Ms. Seguin-Skrabucha practiced with a highly regarded southeast Michigan labor and employment boutique law firm. She is a frequent author on labor and employment law topics and served for over a year as a monthly columnist for the Michigan Employment Law Letter. She was a contributor to ICLE's 2018 Labor and Employment Law Institute.

At The University of Michigan Law School, she served as an associate editor of the Michigan Journal of Gender and Law, as a student attorney with the Pediatric Advocacy Clinic, and as co-chair of the Advisory Committee to Student Funded Fellowships. As an undergraduate she was named a James B. Angell Scholar based upon academic excellence.

Ms. Seguin-Skrabucha remains active with Student Funded Fellowships and serves on its Advisory Committee. She is also active with the Stage Nature Center, a 100-acre nature preserve and education center located in Troy, Michigan, and serves on the organization's Fundraising Committee.

She is a member of the State Bar of Michigan (Labor and Employment Law Section), the American Bar Association, and the Oakland County Bar Association (Member, Employment Law Committee and New Lawyer Committee).
